

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

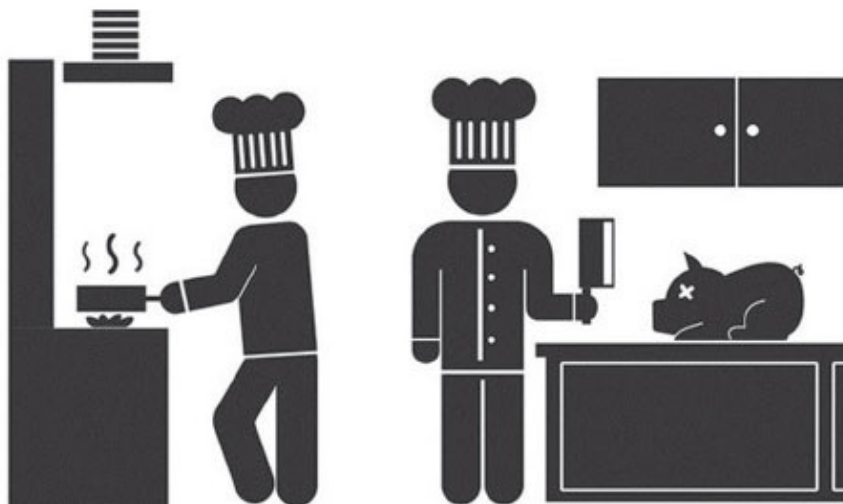

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

What happens behind the scenes?

Learning Outcome

Accurately use important information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- Do you know someone who works in a restaurant?
- Have you heard of any mistakes happening in a restaurant? What are they?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can show interest, enthusiasm and sympathy.
- I can discuss experiences I've had or haven't had.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa tells Sally what happens behind the scenes.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: You wouldn't believe what happened the other day.
Sally: Ooh, tales from the restaurant's back kitchen - please do tell.
Vanessa: One cook who's only been here for a week made this pot of stew. No one realized that he substituted the wrong vegetable. It made the whole pot turn orange!
Sally: Oh, my gosh. How awful! Then what happened?
Vanessa: Well, it tasted different but it wasn't bad. So we served it, but the customers didn't notice the difference.
Sally: Well, I'm glad I haven't made a mess like that in my new job.
Vanessa: Well, I've made my share of mistakes. That new cook has admitted to his mistake, and he promised to be more careful.
Sally: Have any chefs or waiters dropped food?
Vanessa: Oh, of course. Each of them has done that at least once.
Sally: Oh, that's unfortunate. I haven't had my pay deducted for a mistake. Have you?
Vanessa: Well, they could've once when I made a mistake with a dish, but they didn't.

Let's Practice!

What is advisable?

Instructions: Proofread and underline all the mistakes in the sentences. Then write the sentences in the correct form.

1. I'd better stopping being so quick to judge.

2. I ought too be more aware of how my words come across.

3. You'll better not lose your sassiness.

4. We ought to tried and be more understanding of each other.

5. She'd better to call him when she gets home.

Let's Practice!

I'm so sorry! No harm done!

Instructions: Read the sentences. Use the expressions in the word bank to complete the sentences.

Word bank

That's ok / forgive / sorry / appreciate / apologize

Vanessa: I'm _____ I haven't given you a chance, Marco.

Marco: No, V. I'm sorry. I _____ for saying the things I said. I know I can be annoyingly pushy at times.

Marco: You're not needy ... Ok you're just emotional. _____.

Vanessa: I _____ you acknowledging that. It really makes me love you more.

Marco: Please _____ me, Vanessa.

Extension Activity

Write about a mistake you have made at work.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Think about a major mistake you have made at work or at school.
- Write at least 8 sentences about what happened.
- Use present perfect tense and simple past tense.
- Read your story to your partner. Ask your partner to tell you in English about a similar experience.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I express in my writing an experience I have had.

☐ ☐

I use the proper action words in my writing.

☐ ☐

I read my story to my partner.

☐ ☐

I listen to my partner's story.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- tale (noun): a story about imaginary events
e.g. The cook remembered some of her restaurant tales.
- to realize (verb): to understand or become aware of something e.g. They were able to realize he used the wrong vegetables.
- to substitute (verb): to use something in place of something else
e.g. He realized it was a mistake to substitute the vegetables.
- awful (adjective): really bad
e.g. She felt the cook's mistake was awful.
- to make a mess (expression): to cause something to get dirty e.g. She was glad not to make a mess of things in her job.
- to admit (verb): to realize or accept the truth about something e.g. The cook was able to admit his mistakes to the boss.
- to deduct (verb): to take away something from the total e.g. She never had any penalty deducted from her paycheck.

Learning Points

Showing Interest, Enthusiasm, and Sympathy

You use certain expressions to show interest at what someone is talking about.
There are expressions to show that you are enthusiastic about an idea.
There are also expressions to show sympathy at some sad news or someone's feelings.

The following table contain examples of expressions that show interest, enthusiasm, or surprise.

Interest	Please do tell. Then what happened? Hey, what's going on?
Enthusiasm	Wow! That's great. Awesome. Let's do it.
Sympathy	Oh, that's too bad. Oh, that's unfortunate. Oh, that must be difficult. I'm sorry to hear that.

Learning Points

What I Didn't or Haven't Done!

When talking about actions that you have never done you need or you never did when you had the opportunity, you need to use Simple Past and Present Perfect in negative.

Remember you use Simple Past to talk about finished actions in a specific time. And you use Present Perfect to talk about actions that started in the past and haven't finished or are still related to the present.

Simple Past in negative: Subject + auxiliary + NOT + verb in base form + complement

I/you/they/we/he/she + did + not (didn't) + infinitive

I/you/they/we + were + not (weren't)

He/she/it + was + not (wasn't)

Present Perfect in negative Form: Subject + auxiliary + NOT + verb in past participle + complement

I/you/we/they + have + NOT (haven't) + verb in past participle + complement

She/he/it + has + NOT (hasn't) + verb in past participle + complement

Examples:

- The customers didn't notice the difference.
- They didn't deduct my payment.
- The taste wasn't bad.
- They weren't here 2 weeks ago.
- I haven't made a mess like that in my new job.
- The new cook hasn't admitted his mistake.

