

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Discussions at the workplace can be difficult.

Learning Outcome

Accurately use important information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Ask your partner:

- What are some your favorite restaurants where you live?
- What makes these restaurants special? What do they offer?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about jobs and work.
- I can discuss experiences I've had or haven't had.
- I can offer advice and solutions.

Let's Explore!

Sally has a discussion with a colleague about her work.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Kerry: Hi, Sally. I wanted to chat with you about the article you wrote on new restaurants in Cambridge.
- Sally: Yes, how was it?
- Kelly: Well, it's a bit too long. It'd be advisable to make some revisions.
- Sally: Absolutely. I can certainly paraphrase some of the customer comments.
- Kerry: That would be a good idea.
- Sally: I haven't written a documentary piece before. I've mostly blogged on various adventures.
- Kerry: I've read some of your travel blogs. I liked them a lot. They were full of interesting facts about other countries and cultures.
- Sally: Well, thank you. I've had the privilege of experiencing these rich cultures.
- Kerry: You ought to write about those experiences in our travel section.
- Sally: For sure. I can compose a plan for a travel series.
- Kerry: Wonderful. Why don't you write up an outline? Then we can present to the editor at our staff meeting next Monday.
- Sally: No problem. Well, I'd better go and make those revisions.

Let's Practice!

What kind of work experience has Sally had?

Instructions: Read the dialogue on page 2 again. Select the correct answer.

1. What type of article did Sally write?
 - a) She wrote an article on the city of Cambridge.
 - b) She wrote an article on the best restaurants in Cambridge.
 - c) She wrote an article on new restaurants in Cambridge.
2. What did Kerry advise that Sally do to the article?
 - a) Kerry advised Sally to make the article longer.
 - b) Kerry advised Sally to make the article shorter.
 - c) Kerry advised Sally to paraphrase the article.
3. What does Kerry want to do about Sally's experience in travel blogging?
 - a) Kerry wants to read more of Sally's travel blogs.
 - b) Kerry wants to experience those rich cultures herself.
 - c) Kerry wants to use Sally's experience in a new travel section.

Let's Practice!

What have you done before?

Instructions: Complete the sentences by choosing from one of the options you are given.

Word bank

had / read / have / ridden / written / red

1. I haven't _____ a documentary piece before.
2. I've _____ some of your travel blogs.
3. I've _____ the privilege of experiencing these rich cultures.

Extension Activity

Give advice to your friends about any new restaurants in the city.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write a review of 4 sentences for a restaurant in your city that you really did not like.
- Write advice statements to your partner about the restaurant.
- Give the advice verbally to your partner about the restaurant.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I write a review about a restaurant.

☐ ☐

I write advice statements.

☐ ☐

I give advice verbally to my partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to paraphrase (verb): to say something that someone else has said or written, using different words
e.g. She can paraphrase some of the customer comments.
- documentary (noun): a program that tells the facts about actual people and events
e.g. The intern hasn't written a documentary piece before.
- privilege (noun): a special opportunity to do something that makes you proud e.g. She had the privilege of experiencing rich cultures.
- outline (noun): a written list or description of only the most important parts of things such as an essay, a speech, or a plan.
e.g. The editor suggested that the new girl write up an outline for the travel series.
- series (noun): a number of things or events that are arranged or happen one after the other e.g. She had a plan for a travel series for the newspaper.
- revision (noun): a change or a set of changes that corrects or improves something e.g. She worked on writing her revisions for her editor.

Learning Points

The Present Perfect Tense vs. The Simple Past Tense

When you talk about an action or an event that occurred in the past, but you do not specify when it occurred (maybe it's not relevant to say when it happened), you use the PRESENT PERFECT.

When you want to say when an action or an event occurred at a specific time in the past, you use the SIMPLE PAST.

We have some time expressions for PRESENT PERFECT which refers to indefinite time and some for SIMPLE PAST which refers to definite time.

PRESENT PERFECT – indefinite
I have done it	for a long time lately since this morning before recently
PAST SIMPLE -definite
I did it	yesterday. last night. three days ago. at 8:30 p.m.

Examples:

- I have read that book before.
- I ate chicken for dinner last night.

Had better and Ought to for What is Advisable

You use the modal had better and ought to to give advice. You can also use had better to express a strong suggestion.

You can use the contraction "d better" when you speak.

Ought to is used to express a strong request or advice.

You ought to write about those experiences in our travel section.

Might want to is used to express a recommendation.

You might want to make some changes to your article.

Had better can be used as a strong recommendation, or warning.

You'd better go and make those revisions.

